“ What a beautiful tribute! I formed a friendship with Heather through David Phelps groups and the fact that I was born in West Virginia. Heather told me about her family in West Virginia and where they lived which was close to my family. I'm in Kentucky now. Heather was a beautiful person inside and out. I know you miss her family and friends. She's such a beautiful smile! Rest in heavenly peace now Heather. God bless her family and friends.

“ I met Heather through Ernie Haase's MB shortly after I lost my husband, 18 years ago. Even with our age difference and miles apart, Heather was the kind of person, once you met her you fell in love with the sweet person she was. I dubbed her my adopted Tennessee granddaughter and I was her adopted Texas Gran. I love you Heather and I am so glad you are free of pain and in our Lords presence.

“ My little cousin.....My heart is so broken. It was just last week that we were talking, of course it was about our King! You were my biggest fan, pushing me to get everything God has for me! You always reminded me who I was and whose I was! Your heart was pure and sold-out for God! and no matter what came at me, no matter what the situation, you always had positive response! It was always God based! You brought light everywhere you went! You most definitely had that Morgan Smile!! With a little attitude to boot!! My heart is hurting. I can't explain the connection we had but it was strong! I will always cherish the memories we had....from showing you how to drive a stick shift, booming the bass in my truck with you, to meeting you in West Virginia every Thanksgiving!! When everyone else went to other relatives to eat it was always me and you at mawmaw's. You had my back when it seemed like it was me against the world! Right or wrong you still had my back! I will never forget that! You were so genuine! You didn't waiver one time about who you were and what you stood for... and so I admired that about you! Heaven received a SOLDIER!! Heaven got an angel back! My heart is so broken. When your Mom called me, to give me the news, I was already on my knees praying asking God for His words for the sermon you and I just talked about!! My heart was crushed!! My conversation with OUR King changed. He showed me some of these things I have mentioned. But He also reminded me of your battles and what you were dealing with. He reminded me of how much He loved you! He put this on my heart.....Mark, she didn't die, she was just done living here! The grave lost its punch and death lost its sting when she gave her life to me! My heart smiled!! I re-read the message you sent me last week, but I re-read it with what God spoke to me!!! See, He knew this was gonna be the last time we would speak and that changed everything!! God is so GOOD!! My heart is smiling a little more! You see, when I first read your message, I heard my cousin that would go to battle with me no matter what!! Win lose or draw!! But when I re read it with God's finger print on it I felt your heart!! What a blessing it is to be YOUR cousin and what a blessing to be loved by you! That's what I choose to remember....I choose to remember your heart, I choose to remember the finger print of God on your heart, I choose to remember your smile and I choose to remember the impact you had on my life!! One day I will be jealous that you are with mawmaw and pawpaw, one day I will be jealous that you are with our King. My heart really hurts but the brokenness that I had at first is no more because of YOUR heart!! I am thankful that God put you in my life. My heart still hurts but because of yours....My heart is smiling!! I love you so much, and this is not goodbye....But seeya later!!

Your Big Cuz

“ I have been friends with Heather for about 3 years through social media & she was one of the sweetest people with a heart of gold. She always called me her little Sister. For my 25th birthday last year she had sent me a bracelet that has Mathew 19:26 that says “With God all things are possible “ this bracelet will forever hold a special place in my heart. My deepest condolences go out to Heather’s family. Sending hugs & prayers- Brittany

“ I was privileged to know Heather through David Phelps. I remember that Heather's smile could light up a room! I always loved seeing the fun and antics that would take place between Norma, Arlene and Heather. She was a bright shining soul and will be sorely missed. I will continue to pray for her Mom, Dad, brother and all the other family and friends who are hurting!

“ I first met Heather at David Phelps LDBB in 2014. She needed some tickets, and I had some extra ones. That was the beginning of a beautiful friendship. We communicated often since then. I am in total shock over this, and I know that you, her family, are just heartbroken. She was a beautiful, sweet person, and I loved her dearly. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her. I am praying for all of the family as you deal with your grief over the loss of Heather at such a young age. I do know that she is in the arms of Jesus now, and that she is free of all pain, but that doesn't lessen our pain at her loss. We do have the assurance of seeing her again in Heaven. With deepest sympathy and love, Karen Sanders Williams

“ Heather taught me what it was to be a LIGHT in this dark world. She showed me what true strength is - of character, of heart. She let me glimpse into my own soul by revealing hers so lovingly to those she loved. I am humbled and honored to have been counted among them. I treasure her. SHE MADE A TRUE DIFFERENCE IN THE LIVES OF MANY, ESPECIALLY IN MINE. I am so much more because of her, and her great, mountainous capacity to love. She will always live on in my heart. ...
